Recap Dartboard

How to use

- Print the dartboard on A3 paper. Select one of the supplied images, choose your own or devise a statement as stimulus. Students can work in groups. This could be used as a whole class rotation exercise by having students working in groups and working on different images or statements the dartboards. This could also be used by students as a means of revision at the end of the topic.
- Students should be given a chance to try and work out which part of the course the image is linked to.

 In this section jot down the names of studies or sociologists that could be used in this part of the argument

 This section should be an overview of each sociological theory related to the statement/picture/topic

 Insert picture related to the topic or add a statement

 In the final section bullet point strengths and weaknesses of each view and include other evidence (examples) that could be used to support that argument

Education is controlled by the upper class to benefit themselves

The purpose of the family is to reinforce patriarchy and to help men oppress women

A certain level of crime is part of a healthy society

In order for society to function effectively, we cannot all be equal

One of education's functions is to help allocate people to suitable roles and jobs

Families benefit the upper class

Crime is the result of society being unfair towards certain groups of people
